How did the Fund perform in the last year?

During the period from July 1, 2024, through June 30th, 2025, the DF Dent Midcap Growth Fund outperformed the Russell 2500 Index while underperforming the Russell Midcap Growth Index.

The outperformance relative to the Russell 2500 Index was driven primarily by stock selection within Real Estate, Materials, and Financials. Financials, Industrials, and Information Technology were the top performing sectors in the Russell 2500 Index. Being overweight Technology and underweight Energy also contributed to the Fund's performance. This was offset by stock selection in Consumer Discretionary and our overweight to Life Sciences within Health Care as they detracted from performance. Healthcare, followed by Energy, were the two detractors from the benchmark's performance.

The underperformance relative to the Russell Midcap Growth Index was primarily due to our cautious view towards AI-driven investment themes. Not owning AI winners, Palantir Technologies, Inc. (PLTR), AppLovin Corp. (APP), and Vistra Corp. (VST) alone almost accounted for our portfolio's shortfall for the year. Stock selection in Health Care, Industrials, Consumer Discretionary, and especially Information Technology detracted from performance. Overweighting Materials and underweighting Utilities also hindered performance. On the positive side, stock selection within Financials, Real Estate, and Materials and being underweight in both Consumer Staples and Consumer Discretionary were the largest contributors to performance. Consumer Staples and Materials were the two detractors from the benchmark's performance.
